AN IRON MOUNTAIN IN SWEDEN.—Sweden, which has long produced some of the (best) iron in the world, has also its "iron mountain" as well as America. Indeed, the iron mountain of Sweden is both larger and richer than that of Missouri. Its ore yields 72 per cent. of metallic iron—somewhat higher, we believe, than the American mountain. The first indication that the traveler has of his approach to this mountain is the fact of the unreliability of his compass, which becomes useless for two or three days before reaching it, over the slowly traveled mountain road. Mr. Gladstone, the English statesman, in describing his visit to the locality, says that upon his party arriving at the foot of the mountain, they "walked for hours and hours upon nothing but masses of iron ore, perfectly bright like steel." We are inclined to think the distinguished traveler in the above quoted remark has slightly exaggerated what he saw; or else the climate there must be so very peculiar that its atmosphere will not exert its usual oxydizing influences upon a metal so sensitive of moisture as iron. The mountain is, no doubt, very similar to our "Pilot Knob;" but it has the great drawback of being situated in a very high latitude, in Swedish Lapland, some one or two degrees above the Arctic circle. Measures are being taken, however, to overcome the natural obstacles against the development of this wonderful mineral production by constructing a railroad to connect it with tide-water. In time, no doubt, the "Pilot-Knob" of Sweden will be to the old world what the "Pilot Knob" of Missouri is to the new world. Each can supply its respective continent with all the iron that will be wanted for many centuries to come. Both may be considered as among the great natural wonders of the world.—Journal of Mining.

BEWARE OF "SODIUM AMALGAM."—We are reliably informed that certain persons in California and elsewhere in the Far West, are selling the metal sodium—a most dangerous substance in the hands of any but scientific experts—and with it handbills explaining how to convert it into sodium amalgam, which, when properly made, is quite harmless. Sad accidents and great loss of life and property have already occurred in various parts of the world, from the ignition of this terrible metal in ignorant hands, and in the interest of common humanity we bid the miners on the Pacific coast to be on their guard and touch it not. We also learn that large quantities of spurious sodium amalgam are being disposed of in San Francisco, and we consider it our duty to utter a note of warning with regard to that also. Several samples of this stuff have been sent hither for analysis, and one of them was found to contain a large quantity of oil, a considerable percentage of caustic soda, and other impurities, which formed a large insoluble residue. Sodium amalgam, properly manufactured, is, as we have said, harmless; but if there is more than the exact proportion of the metallic sodium in it, the amalgam becomes unsafe in the ratio of such increase, and although it may not actually explode or blaze up, yet it may become hot enough to set fire to its surroundings. If, then, the manufacturers of the soda amalgam now being sold in California have bungled so badly as the above analysis of a sample indicates, they are just as likely to manufacture an amalgam that would be absolutely unsafe to handle or transport.—N. Y. Journal of Mining.

ESCAPE FROM THE INDIANS—A SAD CASE.—The Topeka Tribune says there is at the Gordon House, in that city, a young lady who has been the victim of some bitter and brutal experience from the hands of our brethren, "the noble red men of the forest." Her name is Sarah Jane Luster, and her home is in Wise county, Texas. Some time in the month of September last, the neighborhood in which she resided was visited by a band of Camanche Indians, who captured her, together with the lady with whom she lived, and two children. The latter lady was murdered at her house because she would not cease crying for aid. Miss Luster and the two children were taken away by their captors. Miss L. was divested of all her clothing, and was furnished with but a waist of an old dress and a dirty blanket for her wearing apparel and bedding. Escaping from the Camanches, Miss Luster was taken by the Kiowas, with whom she remained about six weeks, when, in the latter part of October, during a cold and stormy night, she escaped from her second captors, taking with her a pony. She was without food and alone for three days, when she fortunately struck the Santa Fe road, about ninety miles west of Council Grove, and where a Santa Fe train was camped. The teamsters kindly administered to her wants, and sent her on to Council Grove, where she arrived in November last.

HEAVY STORM ON THE MOUNTAINS.—The Gold Hill News, of February 20th, says:

We learn from Mr. Gray, Stage Agent of the Pioneer and Overland lines, that very heavy storms have prevailed on the Sierra Mountains for several days past. The last stage which arrived at Cisco yesterday morning, was two hours too late for the cars, and yet the cars were not out of sight when it did arrive. All that is necessary to do in going over the mountains is to have a pair of snow-shoes, and if the cars are gone before the stage gets in, take the snow-shoes and go after them. A person will take the down-grade of the road and travel from six to fifteen miles an hour on snow-shoes. The snow fell two feet on a level at Strawberry Valley, Placerville route, night before last.

NAVIGATION OF THE HUMBOLDT.—Messrs. Gates & Cain have been making a survey of the Humboldt river with a view to its navigation. The plan is to put on a small boat without cabin or deck, except a small engine-room. It is understood that the Central Pacific Railroad has offered them free transportation for their machinery and supplies, and a large amount of freight for Gravelly Ford. The prime object appears to be to take the early spring freight over all the worst roads, landing it at or near the mouth of the Little Humboldt. Should this enterprise prove a success, it will greatly facilitate the bringing of goods into this camp; and should it fail, it will make a fair stand-off with the boat on Snake river.—Avalanche.

A WOMAN in Nashville, dressed in man's clothes, was arrested twice for being a woman, and discharged, on examination, having proved that she was a man. She was arrested the third time, and it was proven that she was a woman.

The Military Government Bill.

Some days since we printed the very unsatisfactory telegraphic synopsis of Mr. Stevens' bill to provide Military Governments for the rebel States. We are enabled now to lay before our readers the original bill as introduced by the Reconstruction Committee, of which Mr. Stevens is Chairman, and which passed the House without material amendment. This subject is occasioning a good deal of interest, if not excitement, in the Eastern States. Below we append the bill as it was originally introduced in the House.

In the Senate, Mr. Wilson, as we learn by telegraph, offered a substitute, which was adopted, changing some of the features, but not materially altering the scope, policy and intendment of the original bill. The House refused to concur in the amendment; a Committee of Conference was appointed, and finally the bill was passed, and sent to the President. The telegraph informs us that President Johnson will veto the bill, and the message will be transmitted in a few days. There is every probability that it will be passed over the veto by the Constitutional two-thirds majority, judging from the strong vote in both Houses on its first passage. The bill was violently opposed in the House by the Democratic members and a few of the Republicans.

Bingham, of Ohio, one of the ablest of the Republican members, strongly opposed the Preamble, but supported the body of the bill.

Brandegee, Republican, of Conn., supported it as a wise and wholesome measure. It commenced where Grant had left off—at Appomattox two years ago. "He saw in the bill a promise that the sword of the Republic should be unsheathed again; shall be placed in the hand of the greatest Captain of the Age, and should be held by him suspended once more over the heads of rebels, with the awful memory of the reverberation of the cannon which opened Richmond to the Federal arms!" To which Le Blond (Dem. of Ohio), significantly replied, that, "as Ohio was not to have a State election the next week, he would not indulge in high-sounding declamation." (The Connecticut election was to be held the following week.) "He further said that the passage of the bill would be the death-knell of civil liberty on this continent, and the establishment of a military despotism over the country. Nothing but the strong arm of the American people wielded on the bloody battle field would restore liberty to the people. We were drifting to war," &c., which for able style of oratory must have inclined the members to believe that Mr. Le Blond was not unmindful that a Democratic Convention would assemble in Ohio at no very great distance of time.

Mr. Finck, Dem., of the same State, denounced the bill as "a nefarious, iniquitous scheme to overthrow the Government."

Mr. Pike, Rep., of Maine, could not see it in that light. He thought it a very mild dose to be administered to the pestilent spirit of rebellion still manifest throughout the South.

Mr. Farnsworth, Rep., of Illinois, referring to Le Blond's "death-knell of civil liberty," said that if civil liberty meant the right to slaughter and slay and destroy at pleasure, then he hoped that the bill was its death-knell. He said the bill accorded with the views of Generals Schofield, Thomas, Baird, Wood and Sickles, and he believed of General Grant also.

Mr. Rogers, Dem., of N. J., declared "that rather than see a Military Government established in this country, he, for one, would use the power the Almighty had given him in resisting the invasion of his liberties." As the bill is likely to become a law, it is to be presumed that the fiery member from New Jersey is about buckling on his armor—unless, perchance, there is to be a Democratic Convention in his State pretty soon. Mr. Rogers also "hoped that the President would resist the bill with all the military at his disposal, and if he didn't do so, his name would go down to posterity as a living libel, a coward and a traitor."

But we have given enough of the debate to show the temper of Congressmen on both sides on this important question. Here is the bill which has created all this rumpus:

A BILL TO PROVIDE FOR THE MORE EFFICIENT GOVERNMENT OF THE INSURRECTIONARY STATES.

Whereas, The pretended State Governments of the late so-called Confederate States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Texas, and Arkansas, were set up without the authority of Congress and without the sanction of the people; and

Whereas, The so pretended Governments afford no adequate protection for life or property, and countenance and encourage lawlessness and crime; and

Whereas, It is necessary that peace and good order should be enforced in the so-called States, until loyal and republican State Governments can be legally established. Therefore

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the so-called States shall be divided into military districts and made subject to the military authority of the United States, as hereinafter prescribed; and for that purpose Virginia shall constitute the Ist District, North Carolina and South Carolina the IId District, Georgia, Alabama, and Florida the IIId District, Mississippi and Arkansas the IVth District, and Louisiana and Texas the Vth District.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the General of the Army to assign to the command of each of said Districts an officer of the Regular Army not below the rank of brigadier general, and to detail a sufficient military force to enable such officer to perform his duties and enforce his authority in the district to which he is assigned.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of each officer assigned as aforesaid to protect all persons in their rights of person and property, to suppress insurrection, disorder, and violence, and to punish or cause to be punished all disturbers of the public peace and criminals; and to this end he may allow civil tribunals to take jurisdiction of and to try offenders, or when, in his judgment, it may be necessary for the trial of offenders he shall have power to organize military [illegible] proceedings of said military tribunals, and all interference by said pretended State Governments with the exercise of military authority, under this act, shall be void and of no effect.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That the Courts and judicial officers of the United States [illegible] habeas corpus in behalf of persons in military custody, unless some Commissioner or officer on duty in the district wherein the person is detained shall indorse upon said petition a statement certifying, upon honor, that he has knowledge or information as to the cause and circumstances of the alleged detention, and that he believes the same to be wrongful, and further that he believes that the indorsed petition is preferred in good faith and in furtherance of justice, and not to hinder or delay the punishment of crime. All persons put under military arrest by virtue of this act shall be tried without unnecessary delay, and no cruel or unusual punishment shall be inflicted.

[SPECIAL TO THE "DAILY UNION VEDETTE."]

Washington, February 25.

Hill offered a resolution to appoint a committee to investigate whether corrupt bargaining had been going on between the President and members of Congress. Stevens moved to lay on the table; lost—31 to 63. Resolution adopted.

Washington, February 26.

Official returns of the Georgetown charter election show 96 Radical majority. Seven Radical Councilmen, and four Conservatives were chosen.

In the House of Representatives, Wentworth, Chairman of the Committee to investigate the charges of bargaining between the President and members of Congress, reported that they found the same without foundation in truth. There was no testimony given affecting in the least the integrity of the President or any Member. Not the least knowledge had been obtained by the Committee as to the reported reconciliation proposition between the President and Union Congressmen.

The Senate amendment to House resolution, prohibiting the payment of claims to persons not known to have been opposed to the Rebellion, instead of requiring claimants to prove that they were always opposed to the Rebellion, was non-concurred in, and a Committee of Conference asked.

In the Senate, the Niagara Ship Canal bill was tabled—20 to 18.

New York, February 26.

Stock market dull and heavy; Pacific Mail ranged from 127½ to 136.

Washington, February 25.

At the Saturday night session of the Senate, Sherman reported from the Finance Committee, the Compound Interest Funding bill, with a recommendation to non-concur in the House amendments.

Patterson presented the resolution of the Tennessee Legislature, requesting him to resign for having identified himself with the Democratic party. At some future day he should vindicate himself; meanwhile, with the lights before him, he shouldn't obey the instructions.

Wade called up the bill for the better government of Montana, and, after some amendment, it was passed. It defines the duties of the Legislature; also abolishes distinctions on account of color.

Washington, February 25.

In the House, Bromwell offered a resolution instructing the Committee of Ways and Means to inquire into the expediency of issuing five per cent. bonds to the amount of $500,000,000, payable, principal and interest, at such points in Europe as the Secretary of the Treasury may designate; the same to be disposed of only in exchange for six per cent. bonds held in Europe. Rejected.

Cullom offered a resolution directing the Judiciary Committee to report the bill making eight hours a legal day's work for Government employees, but withdrew it on Wilson's stating that he had already been instructed to report the bill, but withheld it because in the present condition of the business of the House it could not be considered.

Campbell offered a resolution declaring that humanity, civilization and Christianity enjoin on the people and Government of the United States the duty of persistently insisting on the observance by the belligerent forces in Mexico of the principles of international law, in order to mitigate the horrors of war, etc. On motion of Cullom, the resolution was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Rollins asked leave to offer a resolution declaring the cordial concurrence of the House in the views of the Secretary of the Treasury in reference to the necessity for contraction of the currency, with a view to as early resumption of specie payments as the business of the country will permit. A torrent of objections answered the request for unanimous consent, and the resolution was not received.

Darling, from the select committee on Internal Revenue frauds, presented a majority report, which was ordered printed. Trimble got leave to present the views of the minority of the committee.

The majority report says enough has been elicited to satisfy the Committee that in the manufacture and sale of tobacco, cigars, and spirits, especially the latter, stupendous frauds have been perpetrated against the Government. In the collection of the revenue, it is believed at least seven-eighths of the entire spirits manufactured under the present law have escaped tax. The Committee felt warranted in the assertion that few, if any, large distilleries in the United States were doing a legitimate business. They doubt the propriety of compromising cases where the law had been violated. They suggest that no whisky be taken from distillery or from bond for re-distillation without prepayment of the tax. Disapprove paying informers, as legalizing a system of black mail. In conclusion, they say that, though there may be some meritorious revenue officers in the larger cities, nevertheless the frauds therein are so universal and gigantic, the morals of manufacturers have become so tainted, and confidence in the local officers has become so shaken, that it is believed the laws can never be properly executed until there shall have been a reorganization of the Revenue [illegible]. The Committee, in view of the near adjournment of Congress, do not embody their conclusions in the shape of a bill, but would suggest that such changes be made hereafter as will insure the collection of the revenue.

New York, February 27.

The Times has private advices from San Domingo, leading it to believe that the mission of Assistant Secretary Seward to the West Indies was wholly successful, its object being to effect a treaty with San Domingo securing the long desired Bay of Samana as a naval station of the United States.

The Times' special says General Grant yesterday expressed his intention of visiting the President for the purpose of urging him to sign the Military Government bill.

A severe penalty against selling cigar boxes with cancelled stamps upon them has been put in the Tax bill. Government has been greatly defrauded by this practice.

A Tribune Baltimore special says it is now understood that Governor Swann will not resign, but will decline the U. S. Senatorship, giving his reasons to the Legislature in a day or two.

The Tribune's special says the Senate's Committee on Foreign Relations yesterday voted on the nominations of Dix and Ewing, Ministers to France and the Hague. The vote stood, three for confirmation, and three against. Johnson of Maryland was not present; he would have gone for confirmation.

The Senate Paris Exposition bill, appropriating $93,000, when in order, will be reported by the House Committee. It is doubtful whether it can pass the House.

The difficulty between the American Minister, Mr. Barton, and the Colombian Government has been arranged in a satisfactory manner; no new Minister will be appointed. Barton's passports to leave that country have been recalled.

The monthly statement of the Public Debt, to be published about the 5th of March, will not show any very material difference from the last statement. The receipts of customs will appear quite large; those from all internal revenue sources unusually small. It will exhibit an increase in the gold balance of several millions, out of which the interest on 10-40's, due on the 1st prox., will be paid.

At the Senate's night session, bill to provide for payment to the Atlantic and Pacific Mail Steamship Co. of $23,000 due them on contract for carrying mails, was passed.

Chicago, February 27.

General Hazen has addressed a letter, from Jefferson Barracks, to Representative Bidwell, who had requested him to report his observations of affairs in Utah while there in October last. He says: "I think it important that Government should in some way strengthen its authority in that Territory, and at the same time increase by every means possible our friendly relations with those people, and elevate their intelligence till they come to feel that they are a part of the United States and we are their friends. Harsh measures will only consolidate them. The lands of the Territory are still held by Government, and if it is the intention to give actual title to Mormon occupants on the same grounds as other emigrants (and I do not see how we can do less), a land office should be opened there and commissioners appointed to settle conflicting claims."

COURT MARTIAL WITNESSES.—The following order has just been issued by the War Department:

Officers or enlisted men receiving a summons to attend as witnesses before a court martial, or any civil courts outside of the limits of the department in which they may be serving, will, prior to departure in obedience thereto, forward the same through the proper channels to the commanding general of the department, in order that the proper orders may be issued to enable them to obey the same. In cases of extreme urgency, and at remote posts, where the public interests would be liable to suffer by delay, post commanders may authorize immediate departure in obedience to the summons, making special report of the facts to the department commanders for approval of their action. Should a post commander be himself so summoned, his action will conform to the foregoing. It is strictly enjoined upon judge advocates of court martials, who may find it necessary to subpœna witnesses, to send the subpœna whenever it is possible, through the known military channels.

White and Negro Troops—Interesting Statistics.

The last number of the Army and Navy Journal has an interesting article embodying some statistics that illustrate the comparative endurance, efficiency, and general capabilities of white and black troops. It appears from these official statistics that the former are, in every way, [illegible] to the latter. The total number of troops in the United States service from April, 1861, to May, 1865, is set down at 2,[illegible]; the total number of negro troops to [illegible] 1865, about 186,057—giving the proportion of about one negro to [illegible] whites. The greatest number of negro troops in service at any one time was in midsummer of 1865, after the fighting was over, being 123,156. Many of these troops saw no fighting at all. The Journal admits that the negro troops displayed great aptitude for drill and discipline, but contends that the experience of the war demonstrated the marked superiority of the white troops in the power of resisting the diseases and hardships incident to service, and claims that they are a much more economical force than negro troops. The facts cited on this head are convincing.

At the end of October, 1865—after one year's service—out of 186,057 negro troops, 85,024 had been retained in service, only 33,234 had been mustered out, and 68,178 were "lost to the service." There were few desertions among them; they had passed through comparatively little fighting, and the loss is mainly attributed to their inferior physique and consequent inability to resist disease.

The report of the Medical Department for the past year shows that the ratio of deaths among white troops to that of cases of sickness treated was as one to fifty-three, while among negro troops it was as one to twenty-nine. The proportion of sick, too, among the latter was much larger than among the former. The Provost Marshal General's records show that of 180,000 negro troops no less than 26,211 died of disease, making a death rate of one in seven, excluding deaths from wounds. Of the two and a half millions white troops but 158,120 died of disease, giving a death rate, exclusive of wounds, of but one in sixteen. Eight negro soldiers died of disease where one died of wounds; five white soldiers died of disease where three died of wounds. It thus appears that the negro soldier's power of resisting disease is less than one-half that of the white soldier.

The proportional deaths from wounds were many fold greater with the white than with the negro troops, and the proportional deaths from disease more than one-half less.

THE BUILDING OF THE PACIFIC RAILROAD ACROSS THE PLAINS.—There has been nothing in all the history of civilization to match the rapid construction of the Pacific railroad from the Missouri river to the Rocky Mountains this year. We give some details, that heighten the marvel of the great feat, from the Chicago Tribune:

The first forty miles of track were not laid until January, 1866, and it was indeed the middle of April before track-laying commenced in earnest. From that time the work has gone on with unexampled rapidity. It was literally a race against time, and time has been beaten. Two hundred and ten miles of track have been laid in one hundred consecutive days, excepting Sundays.

During that time the company have erected all their necessary buildings, in the most substantial and perfect style, at the eastern terminus, Omaha. Some idea of the extent of these shops may be gleaned from the fact that they are now turning out here one complete car per diem. On the building of the road, the working force, at times equal to 12,000 men, has been employed. Nine steam saw mills have been put up by the company, and, with a dozen others, kept steadily running for work on the road. Two steamboats have been bought, and several others constantly chartered by the company, and a very army of men on the lines of transportation have had the duty all the while of seeing that the material shipped for the road should be hurried along. The actual amount paid in freights on iron alone, during the last year, was $1,300,000, and as a single item, showing the enormous cost, much of the iron cost forty-six dollars per ton for transportation from the place of purchase to Omaha.

There are already twenty-one locomotives on the line, manufactured at Schenectady, New York; Patterson, New Jersey; Lancaster, Pennsylvania; and Boston, Massachusetts; also about two hundred cars of all kinds. It cost from $800 to $1,000 to get each of the locomotives up from St. Joseph to Omaha, a distance of two hundred and twenty-five miles; $150 to $175 each for bringing up platform cars, and as for the passenger cars, the company had themselves to buy a boat, the Metamora, for their transportation, the river furnishing nothing which could be used for the purpose.

For sixty miles down and one hundred and fifty up the Missouri river from Omaha, all the force which could be obtained has been steadily at work all this year in getting out ties, and now great numbers are being obtained three hundred miles west of Omaha. Those from this last source are all of cedar, an excellent and durable material, and finding them near the line will be a great advantage to the builders of the road. The average cost of ties has been $1 25 to $1 50 each. To-day the road is 271 miles west of Omaha. It is graded and ready for track laying 100 miles further. The rail is going down at the rate of a mile and three-quarters to two miles per diem, and only about 150 miles further, at most, will bring them to the base of the Rocky Mountains.

MORMONISM IN IOWA.—In the Burlington Hawk Eye we see that Elder Smith estimates the number of Latter-day Saints in Iowa at 20,000. He repudiates the doctrines and polygamy of Brigham Young. He claims the Book of Mormon not as a substitute for the Bible, but as a sacred record which elucidates the Bible and agrees with it entirely. This Book of Mormon pretends to be a compilation of the record of Nephi, one of the sons of Lehi, who settled in America before Columbus discovered it in 1492. Lehi was a descendant of the tribe of Ephraim, who was the son of Joseph, who was the son of Jacob. The Book of Mormon is claimed to be a record of the Nephites and the Lamanites, remnants of the House of Israel in America. They claim that this official document was written on brass plates and hid by the last prophet of the Nephites, named Moroni, in a hill called Cumorah in the western part of New York. Joseph Smith said he found them there in a stone box, being directed thither by an angel who enabled him to translate the superscriptions, whereupon the angel gathered them up and they are now non est inventus, which meaneth "not come-at-able."

An extraordinary suicide of a young man occurred in Brooklyn, New York, very recently, just after the marriage of his sister, for whom it seems he has long cherished a violent and romantic passion. They were nearly the same age, and he had often declared he would make her his wife if she and the laws would permit it. The idea very naturally filled her with aversion, and it is said she entered into matrimony mainly to cure him of his unnatural love. When informed of her intention, he told her he would destroy himself as soon as she carried it out. She did not believe him however, and supposed he was resigned to the event. For a few days before the wedding he became silent on the subject. He was present at the ceremony; looked at its progress calmly, and at its termination kissed his sister, and wished her a lasting happiness. He then hurried out of the parlor where the guests were assembled, went to his own room, lay down upon the bed, and deliberately blew out his brains.

The ledge is in a spur of the White Mountains, on the eastern side, and about twenty-five miles from Piper's ranch. Assays have been made of the ore which have given full satisfaction, and preparations are being made to test it more thoroughly. It has long been the impression of miners that the section of country including the White Mountains was rich in minerals, but as yet it has been little prospected. Since the above discovery there has been considerable excitement about this section. We have also been informed that a prospecting expedition is in contemplation, which is to be accompanied by a topographical engineer and an escort of soldiers.—Esmeralda Union.

Pressing Cider.—In a Good Templars Lodge, on the discussion whether or not cider should be tabooed, a young lady, thoroughly warmed up in the affirmative after a spirited prelude, gloriously describing the goodness and usefulness of that beverage, closed with: And, brethren, cider is a necessity to me, and I must have it. I shall have it. If it is decided that we are not to drink cider, I shall eat apples, and then get some fine young man to "squeeze" me; for I tell you that I can't live without that delightful nectar, the juice of the apple.

Poison at a Boarding House.—A dispatch dated at Portland, Me., January 23d, says:

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Clark and four boarders, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kingsbury and Mr. and Mrs. James Dyer, came near losing their lives last night by poison. Mrs. Kingsbury and Dyer still remain in a critical condition. The physician in attendance pronounced it arsenic, and how it was administered is a mystery.

Some Waterfall.—A waterfall of such ponderous proportions was lately seen walking into the Episcopal church in Pittsfield, Massachusetts, that the congregation smiled at it, and the sexton was obliged to give its proprietress a seat in front in order to shut the outside door.

A man in Cincinnati adopted an original way of reducing household expenses. One morning, when he knew his wife would see him, he kissed the servant girl. The household expenses were instantly reduced $12 per month.
